ASC AWARD NOMINATION FOR DIRECTOR OF PHOTOGRAPHY SERGE DESROSIER

Montreal, January 10th 2018 – Montreal-based Incendo, a Canadian leader in television production and distribution, is very proud to announce that its film SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL has been recognized by the American Society of Cinematographers' Awards ("ASC"). The work of director of photography Serge Desrosiers, CSC, has been nominated for Outstanding Achievement in Cinematography in the Motion Picture, Miniseries, or Pilot Made for Television category. Directed by Philippe Gagnon, SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL was shot on location at the historic Oka Abbey in Quebec, Canada. Serge Desrosiers' work is being acknowledged as the only motion picture in the category alongside four other notable productions: HBO's The Deuce, National Geographic's Genius, CBS's Training Day and Netflix's Mindhunter.

The ASC Awards are attended each year by more than 1,500 guests including Society members, other top cinematographers, their crews and representatives from many industry-leading support companies worldwide. They are cinematography's largest annual event and celebrate the finest works of the year and their exceptional practitioners. The winners will be revealed at the organization's February 17th ceremony in Los Angeles.

SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL: After a mysterious death at the Abbey, Sister Talia finds herself caught in the center of the internal investigation. With strict orders from the newly elected Mother Superior, she must uncover the truth behind the death and ensure the Abbey remains undisturbed. Things take a sharp turn when another sister is found murdered and Sister Talia is forced to find the killer. As she discovers larger secrets plaguing the Abbey, Sister Talia must reconcile her past life in order to follow through with the task at hand. For Sister Talia, all that she knows about the Abbey and her Sisters is about to come into question, as she discovers sometimes the good kill.
